Gregory D. Lee is a litigation attorney who focuses his practice on general business litigation as well as insurance litigation. He works with all sizes of organizations in a variety of business sectors to further their goals and protect their interests.

Greg is driven to deliver exceptional service to his clients, supporting them every step of the way during the litigation process. From the very beginning, he works with his clients to define what winning looks like to them, ensuring that definition of success remains at the forefront of his counsel.

Greg earned his J.D. from the University of Minnesota Law School. Prior to joining Larkin Hoffman, he served as a law clerk and later an attorney at a complex litigation firm in the Twin Cities.

Greg is an avid fan of the National Hockey League and has attended games in 22 of the league's 32 cities. When not practicing law, Greg loves practicing curling and competes on a local team.
